Physical Description

Physical Description:

This small collection, which is stored in one box, was generated by the architectural historian Kim Lovejoy as a Yankee Magazine intern researching the Cape Arundel section of Kennebunkport in 1983. The project was planned and supported by the Brick Store Museum. Its ultimate purpose was to define a historic registry district for the National Trust for Historic Preservation and The Maine Historic Preservation Commission.

The collection of papers has been left in its file folders as created by Kim Lovejoy. It includes not only correspondence, but Lovejoy's proposal for the project and her final report. Included are her resume, contact sheets for photographs, (with negatives) taken by her, notes for an exhibit mounted by her at the Kennebunk River Club, and a walking tour written by her. Lovejoy's notes for an interview with former Kennebunkport resident Mildred Burrage (the tape is Acq. # 83.30.1) are also part of this collection. A copy of the national register nomination for Kennebunkport's historic district in the village, 1975, is part of this collection, but has been moved to Pamphlet Box 9 for easier access.

The accession number for this collection is 83.30.3

This is additional material related to the collection begun in 1993. It was found at the Brick Store Museum, part of cleaning up in 1999-2003. A copy of the books was made. Because of the method of saving the books, some of the photographs of cottages are missing, and some may not be in the right place. A copy of the architectural walking tour has been included, as a summary of the project.

There are 7 additional file folders. Six are housed in Box 2 of this collection and one is housed in map box (O). All contain maps used to document the district, and a copy of the walking tour, given in 1982.

The accession number is 2003.106.0001.
