Physical Description:

This is a collection of material from Martha G. Fales relating to Fred B. Tuck. Fred B. Tuck was the first full-time antique dealer in Maine, and his diary was discovered in 1984 by Dean Fales, Martha's husband. There are four copies of the manuscript and various research notes relating to the book. One copy of the book published in 2000, Antiqueman's Diary: The Memoirs of Fred Bishop Tuck, is included. There is a scrapbook of Fred B. Tuck, finished in his style.

All of the photographs from the book are part of the collection. They are housed in the photograph file by number and cross-referenced to the collection.
